OPERATIONAL NECESSITIES

Starting your own microschool is an exciting journey, with what feels like a million moving parts that all support success on Day One once they have all been put into place!

This training will help you to not forget any operational necessities, and learn from the experience of others to get them right the first time.

We address some items that first timers might not consider until they are actually needed. Being prepared in advance will help you handle a variety of situations that you might come across.

During our Operational Necessities Training we will cover the following items and more:

Questions to ask at registration

Notice of Intent to Homeschool

Emergency Binder

Emergency Evacuations/Reunification Plans

PickUp Procedures

Food Allergies

Contingency Plans

Behavior Policy

Grading Policy

Establishing Communication Expectations

DistancedSpace for Ill or Disruptive Child
